

Schlumberger Foundation Faculty for the Future

Grants for advanced graduate study for women in science and engineering

The Schlumberger Foundation Faculty for the Future program provides funding for advanced graduate study. The long term goal is to support role models and facilitate gender balance in science and engineering faculties at key universities in emerging economies.

Eligibility. If you are a woman who is :

- preparing for PhD, or postdoctoral study in the physical science and related disciplines
- have a proven track of teaching experience, and seeking a university teaching career in your home country
- committed to promoting the development of women in sciences
- hold an excellent academic record

Please apply and review eligibility requirements at :

<http://www.slb.com/content/about/foundation/facultyfuture.asp>

Applications must be submitted by November 30 2007.